

Sampling Conditions and Numerical Analysis for 3D Helical CT

Adel Faridani
Mathematics, Oregon State University
faridani@math.oregonstate.edu

Abstract

A major development in 3D computed tomography in recent years has been the emergence of theoretically exact reconstruction algorithms. This talk reports on ongoing investigations with regard to optimal sampling and numerical analysis for a filtered backprojection type algorithm based on Katsevich's exact reconstruction formula for 3D helical computed tomography.